

1      ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

2            A lock includes a control knob with a keyway and a receiving space defined in a
3            distal end face of the control knob to correspond to the receiving hole of the sliding seat.
4            The sliding block is able to selectively be received at a joint of the control knob and the 5            sliding block to allow movement of the control knob to drive the latch to move
6            accordingly.